Greene County Public Health's Food Safety Program Announces Website Update for Inspection Reports

XENIA, OH – Greene County Public Health officials are pleased to announce that through a partnership with Baldwin Group, Inc. (BGI) out of Cleveland, Ohio, there is now a new website by which anyone can view food inspection reports for any licensed food operation in Greene County, Ohio.

The best way to access this website is to go to Greene County Public Health's webpage (www.gcph.info) and on the scrolling slide marquee, click on the Food Inspections slide. That will take you to this new webpage where you can search any Greene County food operation and view their inspection report. The reports go back 12 months and will be updated weekly. Also on the banner of this new web page, you will notice various links to the health district's website, links to the Ohio Department of Health and Ohio Department of Agriculture for food regulations, our food education/training page, and to our complaint/feedback form.

This new site is very customer friendly and the staff of Greene County Public Health is excited that this is now available to the public.

If you have questions or comments about food inspections, please contact Jeff Webb, Director of Environmental Health Services at Greene County Public Health, 937-374-5600 or jwebb@gcph.info.
