MONTHLY ACTIVITY REPORT

May 27, 2022

1. Foundational Capabilities

a. Administration

- i. The Network for Public Health Law recently issued a report on the recent state legislative activity that resulted in limiting public health authority. In their regular 2021 legislative session, many states introduced or passed laws that restricted the ability of state and local public health officials, governors, and others to respond to the immediate threat of COVID-19, as well as future public health threats. A second wave of similar legislation began in regular and special sessions in the fall of 2021 and has continued into the 2022 regular session. The report details COVID-19-related laws and pending legislation, and broader enacted and proposed limitations on public health authority in all 50 states (and the District of Columbia) from January 2021 through mid-March 2022 for enacted laws and from September 2021 through mid-March 2022 for pending legislation. Click here to read the full report.
- ii. The Ohio Department of Medicaid (ODM) will begin to launch its Next Generation of Ohio Medicaid program beginning July 1, 2022, with the implementation of OhioRISE, a coordinated care program for children with complex behavioral health needs. Other Medicaid programs will be implemented in the following months on a staggered basis to keep the focus on the individual and honor member choice to allow for a smooth transition. This staggered start ensures continuity of care, limits confusion, and reduces complexities surrounding the anticipated end of the federal public health emergency (PHE) and provides the necessary time for provider testing and training.
- iii. Longitudinal Study Examines the Rising Stress and Burnout in Public Health.
Two years of COVID response have contributed to increased stress and burnout, as well post-traumatic stress symptoms, according to the Public Health Workforce Interests and Needs Survey (PH WINS) conducted between September 2021 and January 2022. At the same time, public health workers report that they remain committed to their jobs and communities. The survey by the de Beaumont Foundation and the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials collected the perceptions of nearly 45,000 employees in state and local government public health departments. b. Monkeypox

On May 13, 2022, the World Health Organization was notified of two laboratory confirmed cases and one probable case of monkeypox, a viral infection, from the same household in the United Kingdom. As of May 18, 2022, no source of the infection has been confirmed. More than 100 cases of monkeypox have been reported in Europe. Cases have been confirmed in the UK, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, France, the United States, and Australia. Monkeypox is a sylvatic zoonosis with incidental human infections that usually occur in forested parts of Central and West Africa. Monkeypox can be transmitted by droplet exposure through exhaled droplets and by contact with infected skin lesions or contaminated materials. The incubation period is six to 13 days but can range from five to 21 days. Symptoms range from mild to severe and the lesions can be very itchy or painful. Case fatality rates (CFR) are estimated to be around 1% to 10% depending upon the strain of the illness. CFR is the proportion of individuals diagnosed with a disease who die from that disease. It measures the severity of disease among detected cases. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is urging healthcare providers in the United States to be alert for patients who have rash illnesses consistent with monkeypox regardless of travel or a specific risk factor for monkeypox.
